TEDETORIAL.

Norming has been received by the Australia's mail to confirm the rumors by last previous mail to the effect that the American Sugar Refinery had issined the New York Trust. An ointerview with a gentleman connect ed with the American Refinery leads. however, to the belief that it is not impossible that it may be deemed advisable by that corporation to make terms with the Trust. It is a mistaken notion that the American Refinery Company are eager to make common cause with the Trust. They have all the same to deal with conditions affecting their planting and refining interests which they could not have foreseen or controlled. Adverse speculations upon their former transactions and operations have come to naught, and whatever they may do in the present emergency it would be premature to comment upon until. first, events in the United States indicate what is to come of the whole "trust" business, and, secondly, until the Sugar Trust, provided it has come to stay, shall have fully develproduct in particular.

somewhere in the reception given the treaty formulated by the Fisheries Conference at Washington. The Gioneester fishermen do not like it. Gen. Butler denounces it as a surrender to the British. The Liberal party in the Canadian Parliament articles on Hawaiian politics and perattack it for its concessions to the sonages in the New Letter, one of are wild because the treaty contains a fair and square enterprise of this nothing regarding the Behring Sea country in the London money market. dispute. Judging, however, by the discussion of the document by very infloratial American and English papers, the Commissioners have arrived at as equitable a basis of settlement of the long vexed question as can be attained. Canada gives up its extreme claim to all the fisheries within the bounds of a line drawn three miles outside of beadlands, regardless of the vast bays that would thus have farlane & Co.'s office, incidentally took to be inclosed. Only bays of some accounts say eight, and others ten. miles in width at the mouth are to be Canadian preserves ; bays of larger extent are to be open to American fishermen to within three miles of the natural coast line within such bays. American fishing vessels are permitted to enter Canadian ports for shelter, repairs, water and other necessary ripplies except bait. The privilege of buying buit is reserved to be granted the Americans whenever the United States Congress shall see fit to admit Canadian fish free of duty. American-oaught fish may be transhipped by rail through Canada without the imposition of duty. pointment to the Glogeester folk would seem to lie in the Canadians being allowed any rights whatever in their own territory interfering in any degree with the interests of American fishermen. The disgruntled of the Canadians are vexed chiefly, no doubt, because they could not employ their coveted fishery privileges as a lever to force commercial reciprocity from the United States. British Columbia's grievance in the matter has been stated above. On reflection, however, it will be deemed the part of wisdom that the settlement of the Atlantic difficulty has not been imperiled by loading the treaty with the less canvassed and fresher Pacific trouble. There is no doubt that the British Parliament will gladly assent to the treaty, and the Canadian Parliament will as certainly support that to which an illustrious member of the Government in power has subscribed as a Commissioner. It is to be hoped that Con gress will view the subject dispussionately without regard to results upon sectional voting in the Presidential election. There is little doubt that if Congress views the question on all the merits, it will ratify the convention as the best possible solution of the long-standing menace to o mity between the two great kindred Latest Particulars Regarding the Street Railroad and the Hilo (Railroad.

HONOLULY STREET BAILBOAD.

A GAZETTE representative on other business beat at Messrs. Geo. W. Macoccasion to interrogate Col. G. W. Macfarlane regarding his last mail advices of the street rallroad project.

The Colonel said he had received intelligence that a vessel was loading with rails and all materials for constructing the street railroad, and that Mr. Gribble, the civil engineer who had been here to inspect the Wilder railroad scheme, has been engaged to superintend the construction of the line, and is now on his way out through America. Mr. Gribble will purchase, in the East or in San Francisco, horse ears of the American style, also horses and mules for operating the road.

Col. Macfarlane also received a telegram that sixty tons of rails have been shipped by the mail steamer Cuzco to Sydney, where they will be transhipped ey one of the Oceanic steamships for this port. This shipment is made in order to give Mr. Gribble material on his arrival to go ahead with the line as fast as possible so as to suffer no

WILDER'S RAILROAD.

Colonel Macfarlane's letter advices up to the latest possible date stated that Hon. S. G. Wilder's negotiations were proceeding very satisfactorily, Messrs. Matheson & Co. and Skinner & Co. had every hope of placing the scheme on the market, but some very damaging statements had been forwarded to London stockbrokers and the Stock Exchange concerning the scheme, which were copied from the San Francisco News-Letter. A few anonymous letters had also been received, attacking the scheme. For the time being the effect of these assaults on the good faith of the promoter was damaging, but all this Mr Armstrong hoped to overcome.

Our Revolution-

EDITOR GAZETTE: The old Government was dethroused not for one sin but many. The new Government took its place not to reform one sin but many. There were sins of omission and sins of commission; sins of extrav-agance, sins of drunkenness; personal sins of high officials and social sins of licensed corruption. All should have attention by the present Government, if it fills the measure for which it was created and which it is expected to

Most foreigners and the larger part of the natives assisted in the revolution and in firmly establishing the present Government. It was no child's play, but an earnest work of reform. The Legislature was elected almost exclusively upon the revolutionary tick-et, and of many shortcomings of the old Government no one item to be reformed was held up to the exclusion of the many as conspicuous objects of reform; but drunkenness and the evils arising from it, combined with financial extravagance, official corruption, incapacity, bribery and opium licenses were evils to be reformed-not one or them, but all of them. To reform untional financial extravagance, leaving drunkenness and its attendant evils unmolested, the reform would be as incomplete as if the evils of drunkenness had been reformed and national extravagance left unmolested. Our Legislature was elected to make laws for reforming, as far as laws could be made to do so, all of the evils above named, and to repeal all laws that en-couraged or winked at any of these evils, either in high or low places. Our Legislature have entered upon the work of reform with commendable zeal, but fears are entertained that the
